Availability of ITQ's travel technology solutions helps travel agents increase their productivity and efficiency and enhances the overall customer experience. The evolution of technology and privatisation of the Indian aviation sector has significantly defined and streamlined the development of the travel industry. The global distribution system has become an intrinsic part of this huge ecosystem and the scope of technology has evolved from merely booking air or rail tickets, to hotel reservations and to booking transport for local travel. Consumers now look for a complete package that offers comprehensive travel solutions, which helps save time that they would have otherwise spent making reservations through a travel agent. Jaipur is one of the major tourist destinations among travellers from across the world. The consistent and steady growth in the city has propelled the need for products that will promote richer content for travel agents to promote tourism and offer enhanced booking services to travellers. ITQ roadshow successfully informed travel agents about the company's initiatives that can provide huge benefits to agents in terms of streamlining booking processes and reducing the time consumed. The presence of a strong e-commerce portal in the city will not only empower travel agents from an operational point of view, but will also enable them to provide more attractive deals to customers.
