

Travelport launches new fare management tool

Travelport Net Fare Manager offers unrivalled flexibility and control

Langley, United Kingdom

Feb 4, 2013

Travelport, the business services provider to the global travel industry, today announces a new tool for agents which will enable them to significantly enhance the way they manage, mark-up and control the onward distribution of their airline filed private fares. The new tool automates the often complex, time consuming and manual processes they follow today.

Offering the freshest, most up-to-date fare content is critical to the competitive success of any travel agency managing a private fares program. Net Fare Manager reduces key strokes related to fare management by up to 80% with its intuitive web-based interface. From a single screen, new and updated negotiated fares are displayed for effortless update and redistribution to any travel agency location, worldwide.

Michael Wake, Product Director for Travelport: "Net Fare Manager is a clear example of Travelport developing tools that help our travel agency customers do their jobs more efficiently. We are once again able to offer our customers products that will keep them ahead of the competition and offer exceptional customer service."