Travelport, the business services provider to the global travel industry, and Aero Club, Russia's leading travel management company (TMC), have today announced that the TMC will move part of their business to the Travelport platform. As part of this agreement, Aero Club will be using both Galileo Web Services and Travelport Universal API™ to deliver a leading service to corporate customers and travel counselors.

Aero Club is the Russian representative of global travel management company, BCD Travel, one of the world's largest companies offering business travel services.

"We are happy to have such a reliable partner that provides us with this great opportunity to develop our business, " said Denis Matioukhin, General Director for Aero Club. "The enhanced platform that we have moved onto will make a significant improvement in the way we operate."

Maria Yakushkina, Travelport's Country Manager, Russia, added: "Travelport is delighted to partner with Aero Club, a leader in travel management services in Russia. We have won this account with a combination of our leading technology and our expert people. "
