

Travelport Announces New U.S. Commercial Leader Tina Iglie to Run Offline Subscriber Business

Atlanta
Jan 10, 2013

Travelport, the business services provider to the global travel industry, today announces the appointment of Tina Iglie to vice president, U.S. sales, Travelport. Based in Travelport's U.S. headquarters office in Atlanta, Ms. Iglie is responsible for leading and growing travel agency sales throughout the U.S. and will report to Scott Hyden, managing director, Americas, Travelport. She will transition to the role in early February.

Previously vice president of Global Marketing for Travelport, Iglie brings to the role a wealth of knowledge related to travel industry technology solutions and provides leadership continuity within the Americas Region.

"Tina has done a phenomenal job as the head of marketing for Travelport across the globe, and has a deep knowledge of our products and the overall value proposition that Travelport provides to our customers," said Scott Hyden. This experience, as well as Tina's current engagement with many of our U.S. customers, will allow us to further enhance our customer relationships and improve our ability to deliver value to the subscriber community."

Since joining Travelport in 2009, Ms. Iglie has been leading Travelport's Global Marketing function and has responsibility for Travelport's Brand, Customer Research and Customer Marketing programs. She has 20 years of account management, marketing and strategy experience within consultancy and leading global high-technology firms including Deloitte and Ericsson, Inc.